The name of the world is for lack of a better translation is called Topaz. The world of Topaz doesn't have super landmasses; they have only a couple of large islands just half the size of our Australia and many smaller islands, some not even explored yet. The shape of the cars, trains, planes, and the buildings. Even the way people dressed. Now the people would also give away the fact that this was not earth. The people were shorter than us, and they had an appearance much like elves with pointed ears, their hair had the same range of color as we do except for the purple, green tints around the edges. Beyond that, they were people much like our selves. Now on with our story about Bill Webber and the Sky Pirates.
